

UA Graduate Students are invited to attend

Executive Education: NATIVE NATION BUILDING Leadership, Governance, and Economic Policy | November 17-19, 2009

LEADERSHIP

using vision, encouragement, and positive examples to mobilize people and resources on behalf of the community

GOVERNANCE

the enhanced capacity of Indigenous nations to realize their own economic, educational, cultural, and political objectives through foundational actions of their own design

ECONOMIC POLICY

putting in place effective guidelines for sustainable, self-determined, economic and community development

The Native Nations Institute for Leadership, Management, and Policy (NNI) at The University of Arizona is pleased to offer an executive education seminar on Native Nation Building: Leadership, Governance, and Economic Policy. This seminar is explicitly designed to equip Native leaders and all those involved with Native development with knowledge and tools for nation building.

This comprehensive seminar provides leaders and tribal members with the technical skills and practical knowledge to use on behalf of their people to govern effectively. This seminar is based on two decades of community-based research in Indian Country by the NNI at The University of Arizona and the Harvard Project on American Indian Economic Development.

Executive Education for Indigenous Leaders
November 17-19, 2009
Sheraton Inn Hotel and Suites
5151 East Grant Road, Tucson

Udall Center
for Studies in Public Policy

Morris K. Udall Foundation
CIVILITY. INTEGRITY. CONSENSUS

NATIVE NATIONS INSTITUTE for Leadership, Management, and Policy

Udall Center for Studies in Public Policy, The University of Arizona | 803 East First Street, Tucson AZ 85719-4831
phone: 520.626.0664 | fax: 520.626.3664 | e-mail: nni@u.arizona.edu | web site: nni.arizona.edu

What is this Executive Education seminar on Native Nation Building about?

The executive education seminar on Native Nation Building: Leadership, Governance, and Economic Policy is explicitly designed to equip Native leaders and all those involved with Native development with knowledge and tools for nation building. This comprehensive seminar provides leaders and tribal members with the technical skills and practical knowledge to use on behalf of their people to govern effectively. This seminar is based on two decades of community-based research in Indian Country by the Native Nations Institute for Leadership, Management, and Policy at The University of Arizona and the Harvard Project on American Indian Economic Development.

Why am I invited to this event?

The Native Nations Institute for Leadership, Management, and Policy is seeking to increase interaction with graduate students interested in Native governance, economic development, leadership, education, health, natural resources, and public administration. Through this Executive Education session, you will learn about outreach to Native Nations, and learn how Research is used as a tool of outreach.

Who should attend?

Anyone interested in Native governance. Recent attendees have studied:

- American Indian Studies
- Geography & Regional Development
- Sociology
- Public Administration & Policy
- Law
- Public Health
- Economics
- Education

Do I have to pay?

The scholarship covers the registration fee, materials, and meals at the seminar. Lodging and transportation are not covered.

How do I apply?

Fill out the attached application and email it to rstarks@u.arizona.edu by October 23, 2009. Space is limited and scholarships are competitive.

November 17-19, 2009

Sheraton Tucson Hotel & Suites
5151 East Grant Road, Tucson

To apply for the graduate student scholarship, please fill out the applications and email it to rstarks@u.arizona.edu by October 23, 2009.

For more information visit us online at www.nni.arizona.edu

